

RED ROCKETS OF BORNEO

SELF-TITLED DEBUT CD

Like a short-sharp bristling shock to the system, Red Rockets Of Borneo play straight up punk/rock and roll and listening to their self-titled debut album (out now at all good indie record stores) you can tell they have a hell of a fun time doing it.

Channelling snippets of rockabilly and fifth-gear rock'n'racket, the Melbourne-based five-piece, have penned ten songs of adrenaline riddled mirth on the album.

Sounding like the bastard love-child of The Cramps, Sonic Youth, Screamin' J. Hawkins, The Stooges, Dead Kennedys, Link Wray and The Loved Ones, Red Rockets Of Borneo have been playing before convulsing crowds since their inception in late 2009 to sweaty audiences at the Tote, the Espy, and Yah Yah's to name a few.

The band have a tour booked for Japan in July and another album in the can, so 2011 is already shaping up to be a busy year for them.

Red Rockets of Borneo features James Deane on guitar, James Feros on guitar, Paul Instance on drums, Katherine Karvess on bass and Jean Philippe Lopez on lead vocals.

Red Rockets of Borneo self-titled CD is out now at all good indie record stores.
